

GAMETOBER 2023

Horror Challenge

Week One: Horror From the 2010s

Kick Back and revisit the more interesting horrors from the recent past. These games were once big hits, and offer more than one can expect for practically free games!

Week Two: Childlike Horror

Nothing is creepier than the stuff we saw as kids. Well except these games, they just make it worse.

Week Three: Graphically Graphic

I'm not saying these were picked for their graphics, but that may also have been a factor. The games this week pair interesting visual design and music with graphic storytelling to give us some rather horrifying experiences.

Week Four: Horror With Friends!

For this final week let's gather some of our closest friends and all get scared together. After all, Horror is more fun if you're with others!
